Details:

I am a Computer Engineering graduate, Computing has always been of great interest to me and it is one of my many reasons of going into Computer Science and Engineering. I am skilled in various operating system platforms e.g. Linux, Microsoft, Ubuntu. I have a great passion for ICT

The computing world is growing everyday and the various application tools have made life much easier for us. My goal is to empower people with the power of ICT and this I achieve by ensuring that those I teach have the confidence while making practical use of computing

As a PhD student myself, I know the importance of the appropriate choice of tutors and therefore I offer tutorials in a way that is easy to understand. Each student is different, therefore each session is tailored to the specific needs of the individual. I endeavor to make the learning curve as easy as possible to ensure the student's thorough knowledge and understanding of ICT.
